atre may relieve us from that unpalatable infliction, the virtuous, benevolent, despised Hebrew. The British public rather likes to read about or see the counterfeit presentment of Jews in books or plays, but it likes them comic. They must have hooked noses, and rather red. They must have gaberdines, whatever they may be, and a multiplicity of headgear. They must lisp, call everybody "Ma tear" and cry: "Swulp me!" Yielding to the entreaties of a worthy Jewish lady, who protested against Fagin as a libel on her race, Dickens tried in "Our Mutual Friend" to sketch a be nevolent Jew, Mr. Riah, perhaps the feeblest at-tempt he ever made. It was a dead failure. The lews in fiction are generally old. One can remember but a few youthful Hebrews. There was Barney, a waiter at The Thieves' Tavern; Cripplegate, who told Charley Bates that there was "dobody id bar but Biss Dadsy," and, above all, there was ing Moss, who called on Clive Newcomb, and wo delightful sketches of whom, one in the stalls at the theatre, the other inspecting invitation cards in Clive's looking-glass, are among the best things in Clive's looking-grass, South Country of the Coun

MUSIC-THE DRAMA.

THE BOSTONIANS. The Bostonians produced a new thing called "The Ogalallas" at the Broadway Theatre last night. Printers' ink and paper, which are proverbially tolerant, not to say conscienceless, permitted the house bill to designate the performance "a Romantic Indian Opera." Romantic is-a term in music history around which many delightful mempries cluster. There have even been art philoshers who have contended that romantic subjects, in the true sense of the term, are the only ones idapted to operatic treatment. But when Messrs, Young E. Allison and Henry Waller, who are jointly responsible with Messrs. Barnabee, Karl and MacDonald for last night's production, the first having written the words and the second the liched the amiable epithet for "The Ogalallas" they were obviously ignorant of its mean-ing. Yet charity compels the statement that they were hard-pressed for a descriptive title, for the book is neither serious nor comic, and the music is not operatic. Mr. Allison seems to have appreciated the embarrassment to some extent at least, for instead of putting himself down as author of the book, or libretto, he says simply, "Story by Young E. Allison." But the story is that of a hundred more or less of Beadie's dime novels, ill conceived, ill-constructed and ill-composed. Why it was performed by so excellent a company as the Bostonians will never be guessed, unless the explanation lies in the opportunity for effective costuming which a play with Indians in it is always supposed to offer. "The Ogalailas" has been superbly dressed, and all the performers, save Mr. Barnabee, who evidently knew how vain was his task, labored manfully in an unhappy and fruitless cause. is not operatic. Mr. Allison seems to have appre-

ABBEY'S THEATRE.

The French pantomime players appeared at Abbey's Theatre last night and gave their admirable performance of "L'Enfant Prodigue," That representation is not only delightful while passing, but replete with instruction, and it ought especially to be seen by persons who are studiously observant of the art of acting. "L'Enfant Prodigue," as the reader will remember, was presented at Daly's Theatre, but it was not received with much favor, and Mr. Daly almost immediately withdrew it. In London it was performed at the Prince of Wales In London it was performed at the Prince of Wales Theatre by French comedians, and it held the Stage for many weeks—Phyrnette being brilliantly played by Francesca Zanfretta (Mrs. Charles Lauri), and the elder Pierrot by M. Courtes, while the central figure, young Pierrot was insignificant in the person of Mile. Jane May, In New-York, when the piece was first produced, the possibilities of the Prodigal were shown by Ada Rehan with dramatic ability of the highest order,—the ability of impersonation,—and with great depth and variety of feeling, almost with tragic power at one point, certainly with comminsled humor and pathos. The French comedians at Abbey's Theatre do not give a better interpretation than was afforded by the American company, but they are capable actors and their zealous and thorough endeavors diffuse enjoyment and deserve the public favor. The French company is the same that was welcomed here earlier in the season. It is managed by Mr. Edwin Cleary. of the art of acting. "L'Enfant Prodigue," as the Edwin Cleary.

"A LADY OF VENICE."

Miss Kathrine Clemmons, a performer hitherto unknown in this region, and manifestly inexperienced, appeared last night at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, and presented a conspicuous part in a dreary piece of nonsense called "A Lady of Venice." Miss Clemmons, who seems to be a gentle person, wore several assortments of pretty clothes, and once came forth in a suit of armor and tried to fence; and it may be worth saying that she looked well in her frequent poses in the lime-light. She did not, ever, manifest any talent whatever for acting, and those persons who have advised her to go upon the stage have not advised her well. Sugar and water soon cloy. One of the essential qualificasive countenance. Another is force of character. Another is repose. Miss Clemmons displayed self-possession and a pleasing person, and that was-tall. The position of a dramatic star is, of course, open to any player who has sufficient ability to hold it; but it is not to be attained by the publication of three-sheet posters. "A Lady of Venice" proved to be one more of those dreadful compositions, based on the superannuated model of Richard Laior Shiel, in which people say "perchance" and "forsooth," and "damnation, folled again!" Mr. Barrymore impersonated a kind of gaivanic Ludovico, and was understood to be discomfited in a vile plot that he had formed, as Ugone Spinola, against the robustious Mr. Francis Carlyle, as the Prince of Dorla. Severil showy scenes were set, and Miss Belle Black performed a dance amid colored lanterns suggestive of a picnic at Jones's Wood. As a song and dance and spectacle play "A Lady of Venice" might please on the road. It is altogether raw and silly for a leading theatre in this capital.

On next Monday there will also be a change of bill at the Star Theatre, where Mr. Crane will present "Brother John."

On the 19th Inst., at the Fourteenth Street Theatre, "Darkest Russia" will give place to "The Land of the Midnight Sun."

Sol Smith Russell acted last night in Cleveland. Clara Morris has of late been very successful in theatres on the Southern circuit.

Mr. Hoyt's farce, called "A Trip to Chinatown," was revived at the Madison Square Theatre last night. That piece received over 60 representations when formerly current here.

It is announced that Mr. James T. Powers will appear at the Park Theatre on February 25 in James M. Barrie's comidy, "Walker London." Mr. Powers has already presented that plece in Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston. Mr. Toole made a remarkable hit in the part in London.

FUTURE OF "THE PUBLIC LEDGER."

Philadelphia, Feb. 12.-"The Ledger" in its editorial columns to-day says: "To-day "The Public Ledger, which was founded in 1835, and of which George W. The formal announcement of this complete change of proprietorship and direction of 'The Public Ledger makes necessary the statement that it involves no change in the character of this journal, as its character was created and maintained by that wise, just man who for thirty years of unremitting energy and saguelty wrought in high principle, good conscience and unselfish public spirit to render 'The Public Ledger' worthy of the confidence, respect and support of popular intelligence and virtue."

Till the case came into court, or at least till he had seen his coursel, he thought it better not to talk about his side. Mr. Fulford is going to Phin-deiphia to-day, and he thinks it possible that he may have something to say when he gets back.

Representatives of the leading newspapers and news associations of the East met in this city yesterday, and formally resolved to perfect an organization for the collection of the news of the world and its distribution among themselves and to their clients East, West, North and South. There were present the representatives of "The Herald," The Tribune, "The Sun" and "The Times," W. F. Balkam, of "The Rochester Union and Advertiser," who is president of the New-York State Associated Press; L. Clarke Davis, of "The Philadelphia Ledger"; Charles E. Warburton, of "The Philadelphia Telegraph"; H. H. Cloclazer, representing William M. Singerly of "The Philadelphia Record"; Beriah Wilkins, of "The Washington Post," and the following members of the New-England Associated Press: President John H. Holmes, "The Boston Herald"; General Charles II. Taylor, of "The Boston Globe"; Stephen O'Meara, of "The Boston Globe; Stephen O'Meara, of "The Boston Journal"; C. H. the future to determine whether the sober thought of individual members of the Western Associated Press should develop a restraining influence upon their own managers.

It was resolved that a committee should be appointed, representative of the entire East, which should formulate a plan of combination. The Philadelphians selected L. Clarke Davis, of "The Ledger," to represent them. John H. Holmes was chosen by the members of the New-England Association as their representative. President Balkam will represent the New-York State Associated Press, Beriah Wilkins is the Washington representative, and Captain Evan P. Howell, of "The Atlanta Constitution," was requested to represent the Southern Associated Press, By agreement among the United Press newspapers "The New-York Times" was, selected as the representative of the United Press on this committee of six. The Committee on Organization later organized thoroughly, and selected John H. Holmes as chairman and "The New-York Times" as secretary. A meeting of members of this committee will be held to-day to consider the details necessary to the formation of this Eastern Newspaper Association.

ENTERTAINMENT AT VARIETY HALLS.

An agreeable performance was given at Tony Theatre last night and was fully enjoyed. Edward Lawrence and Nina Harrington made their first appearance in New-York in "A Rube's Reintroducing their imitation of the "Bowery Spielers"; Misses St. Maur and Gardner sang duets; Cain and Orndorf appeared in a sketch en-titled "The Lawyer and the Coon"; John and Nellie McCarthy, paredy singers; Musical Dale, William O'Brien, the "Acrobatic Adonis"; the Quigley Brothers, the Ryders, Tony and Francis, in "A Circus Rehearsal" with the monkey; Joe Lewis and the Helstons, top-boot dancers, also added to the hilarity of the occasion.

A long and varied programme was set before the audience at the Imperial Music Hall. Among those who have place on the bill are Kokin and Kara, two excellent jugglers; James Reilly, the warbler and character singer; Miss Lyla Kavenaugh, the comic opera soprano, who is now heard for the first time at this house in a series of character sketches and made a heroic struggle. Finding that he was himsongs; George Graham, monologuist; the three Continentals, the Irvings, Miss Carrie Tutien, seriocomic; John and Harry Dillon, parodists and singers, and Ada Melrose, who was a soubrette with the Hanions for several seasons. The continuous performance at Proctor's Theatraffords entertainment for many people, especially women and children, through the afternoon and evening. Letta and Foden, the hand-jumpers, will remain for another week, as will the Julians, in their contortion act. Mime. Macart's troupe of trained dogs and monkeys amuse the little folks. This will be the last week for the present that the public will have the opportunity of seeing Press Eldridge. Among the other artists who aid in filling the long bill are the Acme Four, the Garnella Brothers and Miss Race and Miss Clair, in a comedy sketch. "Tubb's Visit"; Lizzie and Vinle Daly, Miss Lillie Langtree, English character songs and changes; Harry Watson and Alice Hutchings. Greve and Regan, John T. Powers, vocalist and dancer; Richard and Alice McAvoy, sketch artists; Prince and Princess Tanakas, Lillian A. Westerly, mezzo-soprano; the Ali Brothers, Millie Bennett and Miss Marie Mant.

At Koster and Bial's the principal new feature of the programme was the first appearance in America of Mile. Arman d'Ary, a noted singer from the Folies Bergeres, Parls. She is exceedingly pretty, has an excellent voice, and is especially handsomely dressed. She sang some of the newest songs, as well as others, which made her a favorite in Parls. Other features of the programme were "the armless wonder," Unthan, in his performance as a musician, card-player, rifle-shot, etc.; Sandow, Alcide Capitaine, on the flying trapeze; Marlo and Dunham, on the triple horizontal bars; the Crescendos, electrical clowns; O'Brien and Redding. Blair and Lorelio, and the Wettenberg Trio, Hungarian singers and dancers.

The eleventh week of vaudeville at Hermann's The aire began yesterday with a good programme. Hundreds of people availed themselves of the privilege of obtaining building lots in Egg Harbor City, N. J. This is the last week that this offer will

THE UNFORTUNATE WILSON BILL.

THE ONLY THING CERTAIN. THE ONLY THING CERTAIN.

From The Providence Journal.

Rumors multiply about the intentions of the Senate sub-committee that is engaged in reshaping the Tariff bill; only one thing is certain, however, and that is that a cloud of difficulties confronts the committee whichever way it turns.

A SINGULAR COINCIDENCE.

From The St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

It is a singular coincidence that the Democratic Senators who favor an increase of the tax on beer have no big breweries in their States. NOT FOR THE COUNTRY'S BEST INTERESTS.

NOT FOR THE COUNTRY'S BEST INTERESTS.
From The Commercial Advertises.
The Wilson bill is to be recast by Mr. Voorhees and his fellow-Solons of the Finance Committee, and every detail is to be fought over publicly in the Senate Chamber, where, as his experience with the Silver Repeal bill informs the Senator, the utmost demoralization can be effected. Every form and quality of fibustering on both sides is to be encouraged, lest, during a short interval between debates, the business of the country should settle down.

ITS DARKEST DAYS YET TO COME.

The Wilson bill has not yet seen its darkest days. When it gets through the Senate it will be altogether unlike the measure it was when it went through the House with a cheer from the agents of importers. · WHERE ARE THE "REFORMERS"?

From The Boston Journal.

So at least a week, and perhaps a fortnight, must pass before the Wilson bill is even reported in the Benate. Where are those vociferous "reformers" who a while ago were predicting that the bill would be enacted by March 1?

From The Pittsburg Dispatch.

When we hear that the Senate is to make the Tariff bill more sectional the question necessarily arises: Why attempt to paint the lily?

ALREADY A GEM.

NOT ALWAYS A TRUE PROPHET. From The Pittsburg Times.

Senator Voorhees says the Tariff bill will be reported from the committee not later than Thursday.

Maybe, but if we remember the silver debate correctly, the Senator is not a prophet to be implicitly trusted.

The fine snow, driven by the whirling wind, beat against the homes of the poor remorselessly yesement-houses, it sifted in through the cracks of casements, entered the houses through broken panes and vastly increased the misery of destitute familles whose warm clothing and even beds in many cases were in the pawnshop, and who had neither food nor fuel nor money with which to lessen the terrors of the storm. In 250 homes, however, the hunger of the morning gave place to comfort in the evening through the distributions of coal and food from The Tribune Fund.

The food was given out at the Bohemian Presby terian Church in East Seventy-fourth-st., of which the Rev. Vincent Pisek is pastor. Mr. Pisek has worked among the Bohemian population of this city, which numbers several hundred thousand, for more than ten years, and he knows the needs of the people and has their confidence. He has been assisted in his work of visiting the homes of applicants for relief by eleven students of the Union Theological Seminary. None of the families which have been assisted by The Tribune Fund through him belong to his church, however. They are of all kinds of religious belief and unbelief, their worthiness and want only being considered in giv-

THE SNOW DEAT HARSHLY UPON THE WOMEN. Nearly all the 250 to 200 people who gathered in the schoolroom of the church building at 2 p. m. were women. They were all scantily clad and must have suffered much from the cold when going through the blinding, chilling storm with their big baskets. Their reward, however, came when they reached their homes with food to satisfy the hunger and warm the bodies of their children. Each family received the following:

Mr. Pisek told the sad story of some of those who came forward for groceries. There was a neat woman, whose only outer garments were a long white muffler and a thin black shawl. Both muffler and shawl had been borrowed from neighbors. All her own thick clothing and that of her husband had been pawned to buy the necessaries of life. The husband lay at home, cold and fil from rheumatism. FEARED HER HUSBAND WOULD KILL HIMSELF.

Many had been dispossessed from the comfortable apartments which they had occupied in days of prosperity, and were living in basements, sleeping in some cases on the damp floors. One of the few men in the unfortunate throng left a wife in such a men in the unfortunate throng left a wife in such a place in order to come for the food. Although she was soon to be confined, she was put out into the street by a heartless landlord. She lay yesterday on a mattress on the floor. She was almost crazed with grief and could scarcely be prevalled upon to allow her husband to leave her long enough to go to the church for groceries. The poor man was desperate, and she feared he would jump into the river and commit suicide if he left her.

A thin-faced, delicate woman came forward when her name was called. A few weeks ago her husband had said to her, "I will shoot myself if you go berging." Finally when all the household things had been pawned, the gun along with the rest, and a whole day had passed in which neither husband nor wife had had anything to eat, the husband gave in and permitted the wife to apply at the church for aid. It was so with many. They had refused to accept charity until driven to it by actual want.

A woman came to decime a gift of groceries for which she had asked. "When I asked for the food," she said, "I had to stay at home all day and nurse my son. Now he is dead and I can look for work. I will not take charity yet."

HE SLEEPS IN A CHAIR EVERY NIGHT. A bright-looking young Bohemian came up with dered in his efforts to get work because he could not speak English, he determined to learn the language. For three weeks he has walked every night from his home in Broome-st, to the Bohemian school in Seventy-fifth-st, and back to his home again. There are not enough beds to accomm all the family, and so he sleeps every night in

There were present Samuel D. Babcock, Seth Low, Jesse Sellgman, Cornelius Vanderbilt, J. Pierpont Morgan, George Ehret, Nathan Straus, William C. Whitney, Morris K. Jesup, Elbridge T. Gerry, Perry Belmont, Jacob Ruppert, W. Bayard Cutting and William E. Dodge. Mayor Gilroy called the meeting to order and explained the object. He spoke of the desperate situation existing among the laboring classes of the city, and of those generally dependent for support upon wage-earning men and women, as revealed by the police census, and said that all must realize that an unusual effort was required to prevent a great increase of suffering among people heretofore self-supporting.

The Mayor was chosen chairman and W. Bayard Cutting was made secretary of the meeting. There was a prolonged discussion, in which most of those present took part, as to the widespread necessity for immediate action and the methods which should be adopted for raising enough money to tide over existing conditions until the large numbers out of employment in New-York can have the means of self-support restored to them.

It is understood that it was decided that a sum of not less than $500,000 should be got together at once. Those of the committee who were at the meeting contributed $50,000 of this amount, and a resolution was adopted requesting that further contributions be sent to J. Pierpont Morgan, No. 23 Wall-st., who was elected treasurer of the fund. It was decided that the names of individual givers to the fund subscribed yesterday should not be made public.

All money raised under this appeal is to be distributed through existing charifies, and that only sion in the Mayor's private office. There were pres-

The absent members of the committee yesterday were John A. Stewart, Eugene Kelly, Oswald Ottendorfer, D. Willis James, and Henry G. Marquand. The following contributions for the unemployed were acknowledged by the Mayor yesterday: Dr. M. L. Chambers, Port Jefferson, N. Y., $50; District-Attorney's office, $197.52; Building Department, $350; C. F. Gennerich, through Oswald Ottendorfer, $100; total, $1,007.52. Total amount received, $40,588.95.

The box-office sale of seats began at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. The auction sale of Friday had disposed of almost all the seats on the orchestra floor, all the parterre boxes, and a good many seats in the dress circle, family circle and gallery. The lobby was crowded with people at the time for beginning the sale, and they were all bent op getting the seats in one way or another. They struggled with one another, and pushed and pulled and jostled to get at the window. THE REV. DR. GREER'S LOAN OFFICE. HE ESTABLISHES A SHOP WHERE POOR PEOPLE MAY OBTAIN LOANS ON CHATTELS AT

A REASONABLE RATE. The Rev. Dr. Greer found that it would take weeks before all the legal steps could be taken toward the establishment of the model loan office. He knows also that the aid which it is designed to give is needed now, and for that reason, rather give is needed now, and for that reason, rather than wait for legislation, he opened a loan office himself yesterday at the Parish House in East Forty-second-st. It is not a pawnshop, but small sums of money will be loaned on chattel mortgages to needy and worthy persons at a low rate of interest. The office will be known as "St. Eartholomew's Loan Bureau," and will be run on business principles and as a business enterprise-not as a charity. The bureau will be in James A. will not be compelled to pay usurious rates of interest for loans.

The Ray, R. C. Booth, Dr. Greer's assistant, said:
"Blanks and forms are being printed, and within a few days we hope to be fully started. One loan was made in an informal way, and another will be made to-morrow, and there are a number of applications pending from people who are anxious to avail themselves of this means of raising a little money. We want it understood that no pledges will be taken." Mr. Booth added, "and that Dr. Greer's plan is simply to advance money on chattel mortgages, and while now the poor people go to the pawnshops and are charged at the rate of about 46 per cent for money, they will be enabled to get it here for about 12 per cent a year. Mr. MacKnight will act as our agent, investigator and examiner, and we look for good results from the enterprise."

STRIKING WORKMEN EVICTED.

There are about 400 unemployed Bohemian cigar makers, men women and children, in the district bounded by the East River, Second-ave., Seven-tieth and Seventy-ninth sts. Of this number about fifty are striking employes of the firm of Bondy & Lederer, at First-ave., and Seventieth-st.; the others, who went on strike six weeks ago, were employed by E. Weigner & Co., No. 502 East Seventy-thirdst., and Schwarzkopf & Co., of No. 1,385 Avenue A. The strike in the last-named factory was ended short time ago. Some comment has been aroused at the action of the firm of Bondy & Lederer in securing dis possess warrants for the eviction of eleven of the Bohemian families who occupy rooms in their tenement-houses in East Seventieth-st, and in First-ave, adjoining the factories. The firm, however, declares that it is in the right. Mr. Bondy says that many of the tenants who are strikers owe three and four months' rent; he would permit them to remain were they peaceable, but he says that they stone the employes who have taken their places.

The evictions, it is generally believed in the neighborhood, will work little harm, as the Bohemians are remarkably thrifty, and when they are in poor circumstances the Bohemian colony pools its finances to keep families from want.

DR. HORATIO QUINCY BUTTERFIELD.

Olivet, Mich., Feb. 12.-Dr. Horatio Quincy Eutterfield, president of Olivet College, died this morning of pneumonia after a short filness. Dr. Butterfield was born in 1822. His grandfather, Jesse Butterfield, was one of the Revolutionary minute men. Dr. Butterfield was graduated from Harvard College with the class of 1848. He studied law for a time with Francis Hilliard, of Boston, and then entered the theological seminary at Bangor, Me., and was graduated in 1853. After preaching for twelve years in the East he was made professor of ancient languages in Washburn College, Kansas, and two years later he became president of that college. In 1818 Dr. Butterfield entered upon his duttes as president of Olivet College, which position he held up to the time of his death. Butterfield, was one of the Revolutionary minute

SIR HARRY VERNEY.

London, Feb. 12.-The Right Hon. Sir Harry Verney died at 6 o'clock this morning at his residence, Clayton House, Buckinghamshire.

Sir Harry Verney was the eldest son of the late General Sir Harry Calvert. He assumed the surname of Verney in lieu of Calvert in 1827, on inname of Verney in lieu of Calvert in 1827, on in-heriting the estates of the Baroness Fermanagh, which barony is now extinct. He was deputy chairman of the Buckinghamshire Railway Com-pany and of the Aylesbury and Buckingham Rail-way Company. His first wife, who died in 1857, was the daughter of the late Rear-Admiral Sir George Johnstone Hope. In 1838 Sir Harry married Frances Nightingala, sister of Florence Nightin-gale. She died in 1839.

ARCH M'KELLAR.

Hamilton, Ont., Feb. 12.—Arch McKellar, Sheriff of Wentworth County, is dead. From 1871 to 1875 he was Minister of Aericulture and Emigration, and Commissioner of Public Works under Premiers Stake and Mowat in the Ontario Cabinet. Mr. Mc-Kellar had been out of politics for several years, but he was at one time one of the most popular platform speakers in Ontario. He was seventy-nine years of age.

JOHN B. LAMONT.

Cortland, N. Y., Feb. 12.-John B. Lamont, fathe last night at his home in McGrawville, this county. He was born at Scottish Mountain, Delhi, Delaware County, N. 1., on April 10, 1825. His parents, Daniel and Margaret Lamont, came to America from the Isle of Bute, Scotland, in 1817. In 1848 the family removed to McLean, Tompkins County, and had a farm near Cortiand for two years. Later Mr. Lamont removed to McGrawville, where he was engaged in mercantile business until two years ago. He was one of a family of fifteen children. Six years ago he had a stroke of paralysis, from which he never fully recovered. He leaves a widow, Elizabeth Scott Lamont, to whom he was married in Andes, Delaware County, on February 14, 1882. Secretary Lamont is their only child. Secretary and Mrs. Lamont were with him at the time of his death, The funeral will be held at the family home on Wednesday at 1 o'clock. - JOHN S. RICE.

John S. Rice died at his winter home, No. 123 West One-hundred-and-twenty-ninth-st., yesterday, from cancer. He was sixty-eight years old. He was born in South Berwick, Maine, and shortly after coming of age went to San Francisco, where after coming of age went to San Francisco, where he was the cashler of the custom house for six years. He came to this city in 1858, and organized the Vulcanite Jewelry Company, which was for a number of years a successful business organization. Mr. Rice retired from active business about twenty years ago, and built a handsome home at North Tarrytown, where he spent his summers. He was active in organizing the Irving Memorial Church at Tarrytown, and was one of its officers.

In politics Mr. Rice was an arient Republican, but he never held office except for a short time as a county judge in Oregon, in the early days, He is survived by two sons, who are in business in Iowa, and two daughters.

BENJAMIN P. FAIRCHILD.

Benjamin P. Fairchild, one of the oldest of the members of the Real Estate Exchange, died from heart disease on Sunday morning at his home, No. 128 West Eighty-fifth-st. He was eighty years old. and he leaves a widow and two daughters, one of the latter being the wife of ex-Congressman Stahlnecker, of Yonkers. The flag of the Exchange, at No. 59 Liberty-st. was placed at halfmast vesterday on account of Mr. Fairchild's death. It was said there that Mr. Fairchild was honored by all of the members who had dealings with him. He was regarded as an expert in judging the value of property uptown and in the district north of the Harlem River. He was a regular attendant at sales of property, and he was so clever as a buyer that many of his purchases were resold before he left the auction-room. A committee of the Exchange was appointed yesterday to attend Mr. Fairchild's funeral.

CAPTAIN JOHN G. NOONAN. Captain John G. Noonon, warden of the Kings

County Jail, died last evening at the jail, in Raymond-st., Brooklyn. He had only been in that office since the beginning of the year. Before that time he was a weigher in the Custom House. Captain Noonan was fifty-three years old and a war vet-Noonan was fifty-three years old and a war vetern. In politics he was an enthusiastic Republican. He had for years suffered from asthma and heart trouble. Ie visited the office of Dr. Joseph F. O'Connell yesterday afternoon, for treatment, and on his return to the jail he told Sheriff Buttling that he felt weak. He died a short time after his return. He was born in Brooklyn, and learned the trade of a glass cutter. When the war broke out he enlisted in the Tal N. Y. Volunteers, and came out of the war a captain. He was afterward employed in the Custom House until this year, when Sheriff Buttling made him warden of Raymond-st. Jail. He was vice-commander of U. S. Grant Post, G. A. R., and a member of the Third Army Corps. He left a wife and two daughters. The funeral will take place from the Church of Our Lady of Mercy on Thursday.

COUNSEL FOR THE INQUIRY CHOSEN The Rev. Dr. Parkhurst had a consultation with Charles Stewart Smith, of the Chamber of Commerce, yesterday, regarding the selection of a lawyer to act as the counsel of the State Senate nittee in the investigation of the Police Department. In the afternoon Dr. Parkhurst said to a reporter of The Tribune that they had reached a satisfactory conclusion, but they were not at liberty at present to publish the name of the coun-sel who had been selected. He could not say, either, how soon the investigation would begin. The action of Dr. Parkhurst and Mr. Smith will have to be confirmed by the committee in Albany before it will be made public.

WILLIAM A. MILES KILLED.

THE WELL-KNOWN BREWER FALLS FIFTY FEET TO HIS DEATH IN HIS OWN ESTABLISHMENT.

William A. Miles, the president of the Croton Brewing Company, at No. 55 to 59 Chrystle-st., was instantly killed shortly after 10 o'clock yesterday morning by failing from the cooling room of the brewery to the ground floor, a distance of about fifty feet. Almost every bone in his body was broken, but his face was only slightly bruised. Mr Miles was making his customary daily inspection of the brewery, and he was alone, when he seized by an attack of vertigo, to which he had been subject for some time. When he was stricken he was probably standing near the open door of the cooling room, which leads to the main area shaft of the brewery.

The dead man was fifty-five years old, and he eaves a wife and four children. Mr. Miles was one of the largest brewers in the country. He was regarded as a wealthy man.

FIFTY-EIGHT RIOTERS ON TRIAL.

MANSFIELD VALLEY COAL MINERS TO ANSWER FOR THEIR LAWLESSNESS. .

Pittsburg, Feb. 12.-All of the foreigners of the Mansfield Valley seemed to be present at the Court House this morning, either as witnesses or charged with riot, Judges Ewing and Magee oc-cupied the bench. Fifty-eight chairs were placed in front of the bar. To these the prisoners were conducted in groups not exceeding ten in number. The trial of fifty-eight men at one time is something unprecedented in the history of Allegheny District-Attorney Burleigh, assisted by Harry Gearing, has charge of the prosecution. The defendants are represented by Messrs. Rowand, Blakely, Miller and Stebick. The jury was completed by 11 o'clock, and Mr. Burleigh opened the case for the prosecution. He announced that two of the prisoners had pleaded guilty.

W. J. Steen, the coal operator, was the first witness. He estimated the number of rioters at 200 men, and saw property damaged, including his own. He saw men who were working attacked by by him.

Griff Williams, a Bower Hill miner, identified five of the prisoners as having been in the mob that a tacked the mine property where he worked. Charles Gillesple also saw the rlot, and identified several of the prisoners.

THE PRINCESS COLONNA'S REASONS.

SHE MAKES A BRIEF STATEMENT, TELLING WHY SHE CAME TO THIS COUNTRY. The Princess Colonna made a statement yesterday through her brother, John W. Mackay, jr. It was

"I authorize you to state that my sudden decision to leave France and come to America was due colely to a plot which I discovered that my husband, the Prince di Galatio Colonna, had formed, to steal one of my children from me as a hostage, indi-is well as closely to watch my movements. PRINCESS EVELYNE DI GALATIO COLONNA. This statement was given out by John W. Mackay, jr., but further he would not talk. When the Princess left the steamship New-York, which arrived on Sunday, she went at once to the Belgravia, Fifth-ave, and Forty-ninth-st. Last night, it was said at the Belgravia, that the Princess had left the house, and all knowledge of her whereabouts was denied. At the Hotel Buckingham a similar ignorance prevailed, and at the Waldorf, the suggestion that Mr. John W. Mackay, jr., was a guest there was denied.

ARCHBISHOP CORRIGAN'S VACATION. Archbishop Corrigan left New-York yesterday for a short vacation, accompanied by his private secre-tary, Father Connoily. The Archbishop sailed on the steamship Seminole for Charleston, S. C. From there he will go by rail to San Anvonio, in Fiorida, where his brother, Dr. Andrew Corrigan, lives. The Archbishop will be home again on March 1.

MR. DURBOROW TAKEN ILL IN THE HOUSE. Washington, Feb. 12.-Representative Durborow, of Illinois, was taken ill in the House to-day and compelled to return to his hotel. Surgeon-General Wyman, who attended him, said that he had contracted a heavy cold, the result of exposure from riding on a gripcar this morning during the in-clement weather now prevailing. No bad effects are expected, and it is thought that Mr. Durborow will be able to resume his duties in a few days.
